Law Enforcement Torch Run Overview

Special Olympics is the charity of choice for Law Enforcement world-wide, partnering to raise awareness and funds to benefit the lives of all Special Olympics athletes. Known honorably as “Guardians of the Flame,” law enforcement members and Special Olympics athletes carry the torch, the Flame of Hope, into the Opening Ceremony of competitions, symbolizing courage and championing acceptance and inclusion for people with intellectual disabilities.

Over 3,500 law enforcement personnel from 200 different Northern California law enforcement agencies participate in the Torch Run. The run spans across two weeks, passes through 30 different counties and over 180 different cities, generating great visibility throughout local communities.
